Owner Experience Review

Owners frequently deploy the 255 VISTA from FOUR WINNS as a family-oriented weekender and adaptable dayboat, often trailering it between coastal spots and inland lakes. Belowdecks, the convertible V-berth/dinette (longest length about 6'8") combined with a beam-width aft cabin makes efficient use of the available space, while the stand-up head and large hullside windows plus skylights keep the cabin airy and functional. On deck, the cockpit layout—featuring a wetbar, ample storage, and an aft lounge that converts into a sunpad—caters to watersports and casual fishing, and the compact galley is practical rather than luxurious.

Underway, sea trials and owner feedback describe the hull as competent in head, beam, and following seas for a 25' pocket cruiser, though many owners observe that the boat requires relatively high RPM to climb aboard and remain on plane, with reports such as "over 4K" being common. Some owners also describe a slightly sluggish or delayed steering response—sometimes a matter of a few seconds—so helmsmen often anticipate turns instead of making abrupt inputs.

Maintenance notes reflect typical small-cruiser concerns: impellers and raw-water intake clogging appear in owner discussions, and the integrated gauge panels have been reported to fail on some units. Canvas and upholstery on older examples frequently require replacement or bespoke repairs, but ease of access is aided by features like the electric-lift engine hatch and an accessible day-hatch referenced in manuals and forums. Condition varies by individual boat, yet these themes recur across reviews and owner posts.

Pros and Cons

• Flexible interior with a convertible V-berth (~6'8"), beam-width aft cabin, and a stand-up head.
• Cockpit layout with wetbar, storage, and convertible aft seating suits watersports and day outings.
• Capable, stable ride in head, beam, and following seas for a 25' pocket cruiser.
• Needs relatively high RPM—often over 4,000—to get and stay on plane.
• Some owners and tests report sluggish, delayed steering response at the helm.
• Older boats commonly need attention to impellers, gauge panels, and canvas/upholstery.
