OVERVIEW

The Amer F 126 marries forward-looking aesthetics with environmentally mindful engineering and bespoke luxury. Outlined externally by Antonio Luxardo/Optima Design, her sleek, contemporary silhouette embraces broad decks and expansive glass that pours natural light into the living spaces, creating a striking yet serene presence on the water.

Inside, the yacht is an exercise in understated elegance. A full-beam owner's suite on the main deck commands panoramic ocean views and includes an intimate lounge plus a wellness, spa-style ensuite. Below, four exquisitely appointed guest staterooms on the lower deck each feature private bathrooms and finely crafted finishes designed to foster calm and privacy. The lofty saloon opens seamlessly to the aft cockpit through wide glass sliders, forging a fluid connection between the interior's comfort and the al fresco areas. The finish scheme is entirely client-driven; owners may specify supple Italian hides, mirror-polished timbers and honed natural stone to compose a personalized signature throughout.

Her exterior arrangements are conceived with equal attention to form and function. The aft terrace incorporates a hydraulic fold-down platform that converts into a waterline beach club ideal for sunbathing, swimming or tender operations, while the flybridge crowns the vessel with panoramic sightlines, a wet bar, generous sun pads and a shaded dining area for open-air entertaining. Broad side decks lead forward to a commodious bow lounge with an optional Jacuzzi, creating multiple retreats for relaxation and discretion. Every detail, from gleaming stainless highlights to flexible deck layouts, reflects Amer's commitment to refined innovation.

Crew accommodation is arranged separately to ensure discreet, professional service and comfortable quarters, and propulsion comes from quad Volvo Penta IPS drives, delivering whisper-quiet, smooth performance.
