OVERVIEW

NEVERLAND heralds Overmarine's deliberate entry into the tri-deck superyacht sector. The Italian shipyard behind the celebrated Mangusta sport yachts—renowned for their waterjet-driven, open-performance pedigree and the glamorous weekend cruises of the French Riviera—recognized a growing desire among owners for vessels capable of extended, uncompromised voyaging. In response, Overmarine developed the Oceano series of full-displacement motor yachts to deliver genuine range, interior volume and a tranquil seagoing experience. NEVERLAND is hull number two in that line, a clear expression of the yard's strategic shift, with four further sisterships currently under construction. With an 8.7 metre beam and 2.4 metre draft, she pairs a steel hull and teak decks with an aluminium superstructure and registers an impressive 450 gross tons for her waterline length. Propulsion comes from twin 1,448 hp MTU diesels, producing a 15 knot top speed, an effortless 11 knot cruising speed and an estimated 4,500 nautical mile bluewater range. Accommodation is arranged for 12 guests across five cabins, the interiors conceived in house by Alberto Mancini, the designer credited with 17 distinctive Mangusta open, waterjet projects. Both NEVERLAND and NAMESTE were originally commissioned by American clients and later sold through the U.S. luxury yacht brokerage market, where they have attracted particular attention at South Florida boat shows. New build pricing is quoted at approximately €25M.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Technical details

Built by Overmarine as the Oceano 42, this motor yacht was completed in 2014 and carries a 2017 model year, with both interior and exterior styling conceived by Alberto Mancini. Her structure combines a robust steel hull with an aluminum superstructure and decks laid in teak, marrying strength, efficiency and a timeless warmth underfoot. She registers 447 GT and extends to 42.3 m (138.7 ft) overall, with an 8.7 m (28.5 ft) beam and a 2.4 m (7.8 ft) draft. Propulsion comes from twin MTU 12V 2000 M72 engines producing 1,448 hp, allowing a top speed of 15 knots, a cruising speed of 11 knots and an impressive range of 4,500 nm. The accommodation configuration comprises five staterooms to welcome twelve guests, supported by a professional crew of seven.
