OVERVIEW

At 42 metres, the Benetti Veloce 140 marries spirited performance with refined comfort and sophisticated style, a motor yacht delivered in 2014 as the flagship of Benetti's fast-displacement family and built around the patented Displacement-to-Planing (D2P) hull that is tuned for economical displacement passages yet capable of lifting and planing when speed is desired. Designed for owners who prize the calm efficiency of long-range cruising but also enjoy the exhilaration of higher speeds, she offers composed seakeeping and economical fuel consumption at cruising pace while confidently releasing extra knots on demand. The on-board experience is one of considered luxury: sumptuous finishes, intelligent space planning and generous social areas create a curated lifestyle for entertaining and relaxation. Exterior lines and the overall concept are the work of Stefano Righini in collaboration with naval architect Pierluigi Ausonio and Benetti's in-house R&D, while interiors were conceived by Redman Whiteley Dixon with further styling input from Joao Armentano. True to her superyacht status, she boasts a vast full-beam owner's suite with a starboard fold-out balcony and an expansive 830-square-foot sundeck complete with pool, delivering exceptional open-air living. Recently she successfully completed her ten-year class survey, and the owner proactively renewed the vessel's legacy electrical infrastructure — rewiring, updated lighting, bridge electronics and power converters — so that systems now present as thoroughly modern, enhancing reliability and rendering the yacht effectively better than new.
