OVERVIEW

FERAL CAT, a 2001 BAYLINER measuring 28 feet LOA, embodies the practical elegance of the 2858 Ciera Command Bridge, engineered around a single powerplant for efficient, economical performance. Dual helm stations—up top and below—invite confident cruising in changing conditions. Inside, a generous forward berth pairs with a private midship double, while an all electric galley and an enclosed head with shower, vanity mirror, and marine toilet elevate onboard livability.

Built to meet or exceed applicable U.S. Coast Guard standards and certified by the National Marine Manufacturers Association, BAYLINER subjects finishes and components—from gelcoat to carpeting—to rigorous climate and stress testing beyond typical use. Prototypes undergo exhaustive trials to validate hull strength, ride quality, fuel economy, and engine performance. Notably, the transom is sealed during lay up rather than cut afterward, avoiding exposed end grain and helping preserve hull integrity over the long term.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Accommodations

FERAL CAT, a 2001 BAYLINER measuring 28 ft LOA, is entered from the swim platform through the transom door into a cockpit sheltered by a canvas top. A sliding door opens to the main salon, where a comfortable dinette to port converts to sleep two, with an additional berth beneath for two more. A large forward V-berth accommodates two additional occupants. The inside helm sits adjacent to a galley to starboard, and an enclosed head with shower is provided. Shestakov Yacht Sales

Deck/Bridge

FERAL CAT, a 2001 BAYLINER 28, presents with non-skid and walk-around decks, a flybridge boasting a swivel helm seat and additional flybridge guest seating, along with a bridge ladder and a bimini top. Forward of the helm sits a radar arch and glare shield. The cockpit features transom storage and a chain locker, with easy engine access via a large hatch. A stainless steel bow rail protects the foredeck, while anchoring gear includes an electric anchor windlass and a portable stern thruster is carried aboard.

Galley

The galley features an Origo two-burner electric/alcohol stove, a Norcold refrigerator with freezer, and a deep stainless steel sink supplied with pressurized hot and cold water, along with a 6-gallon water heater; a microwave is also installed. The vessel, FERAL CAT, is a 2001 BAYLINER, 28 ft, listed by Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Electrical/Electronics

FERAL CAT is a 2001 BAYLINER 28, equipped with a Horizon VHF radio and a Raymarine Hybrid Touch chart plotter that integrates fish finder and radar functions. The vessel features a depth gauge and a Richie compass, and is fitted with Bennett trim tabs. Electrical shore power is provided via a 30 amp power inlet, with onboard support including two deep cycle batteries, a battery charger, a dual battery switch and an AC distribution panel. Audio is delivered through a stereo system with cockpit speakers. Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Additional

FERAL CAT, a 2001 BAYLINER measuring 28 ft, is equipped with a window shade cloth and stainless steel folding cup holders. Anchoring gear includes a Fortress anchor with rode.
