OVERVIEW

2023 — 35-foot outboard sport cruiser, presently lying in the United States, this refined 35-foot cruiser blends contemporary lines with purposeful capability. Her 10-foot beam and a modified V-hull give the yacht a poised, sure-footed motion, slicing through chop with composure while keeping guests comfortable and dry. Built with a fiberglass-composite hull and fiberglass decks, she presents a deep, glossy finish and durable construction that simplifies upkeep season after season.

Propelled by twin Mercury outboards, she delivers the brisk acceleration and hushed refinement owners expect, whether threading a marina or opening the throttles along the coast. A substantial 177-gallon fuel capacity extends range and reduces the need for frequent refueling, while a draft of approximately six feet imparts offshore confidence and a stable, planted feel underway.

The deckplan favors ease and sociability: generous forward lounging, an inviting aft cockpit, and sightlines designed for relaxed conversation and effortless entertaining. Non-skid fiberglass underfoot and reassuring freeboard create a safe environment for family and guests, and broad walkways encourage simple movement from bow to stern. Thoughtful storage is integrated throughout to keep the decks uncluttered and the focus on the horizon.

Below decks, an enclosed head adds convenience for day voyages or surprise overnights, supported by a 30-gallon freshwater supply that keeps comforts readily available. The interior and ergonomics are clean and intuitive, offering practical appointments that enhance every outing without calling attention to themselves.

From brisk morning runs to tranquil evening anchorages, this 35-foot outboard sport cruiser is modern in presence and athletic in temperament — a polished, welcoming platform that suits new boaters and seasoned captains alike, ready for the next escape in style and confidence.

Pristine, low hours, and loaded with options, this like-new 2023 Sea Ray 350 SLX is a standout in both condition and equipment.
