OVERVIEW

The 2004 Formula 370 Super Sport is presented as a meticulously maintained express cruiser, ready for a discerning new owner. Twin MerCruiser 496 MAG gasoline inboard engines show approximately 1,000 original hours and have been kept up to date with all scheduled services, while the Kohler generator has logged about 562 hours and has received the same careful attention. This performance-focused sport yacht delivers the signature Formula ride, marrying brisk speed and nimble handling with onboard comfort for energetic day runs or leisurely coastal passages.

Her ownership history reflects a preventative approach to upkeep: repairs have been addressed promptly rather than postponed, and both the propulsion units and genset are routinely flushed with fresh water after use to extend service life. The engine room has been enhanced with new seawater strainers to improve dependability and simplify maintenance—details that appeal to buyers seeking a turnkey, high-performance vessel.

Uncommonly for boats in this category, she has been dry-kept, continuously stored under cover, and has never been bottom painted, with the hull not left aground or in the water for extended periods. Those preservation practices are documented by extensive maintenance records and paid invoices covering routine service, repairs, and selected upgrades, providing transparent support for the boat's condition and history.

On deck, the cockpit is configured for refined entertaining with generous lounge seating, a wet bar, and an ergonomically arranged helm that keeps the skipper comfortable and engaged. An extended swim platform facilitates watersports and easy boarding, enhancing her versatility as a dayboat. Below decks, the air-conditioned cabin is appointed for weekend escapes, offering a forward V-berth, a convertible mid-cabin, a compact galley, and an enclosed head so overnight stays are as effortless as afternoon jaunts.

The Formula 370 SS represents a compelling combination of size, performance, and value within the performance cruiser segment, presented with genuine care. Dry storage at the current marina may be transferable to a purchaser pending marina approval. The seller is motivated and receptive to reasonable offers, and viewings are convenient by appointment for buyers seeking a luxurious, ready-to-enjoy express cruiser.
