OVERVIEW

If you seek a roomy, highly regarded express cruiser with genuine upside, the 2007 Sea Ray Sundancer 38 merits serious consideration. Renowned for marrying confident performance with refined onboard comfort, this model delivers the poise and finish that discriminating boaters expect from a premium cabin cruiser while offering an inviting platform for entertaining and overnight stays.

Measuring roughly 39 feet overall with a 12'6" beam, the Sundancer 38 provides a generous cockpit and a well-conceived interior plan that includes a forward stateroom, a mid-cabin sleeping area, a comfortable salon, a practical galley, and a head with a separate shower to enhance privacy and convenience. Propulsion is reportedly provided by twin MerCruiser 8.1S HO gasoline inboards, each rated at 420 horsepower, complemented by a generator and system features such as a bow thruster, reverse-cycle air conditioning and heat, a windlass, navigation electronics and a suite of cockpit amenities designed for a luxury sport cruiser.

According to the owner, recent investments in equipment and maintenance include replacement of the reverse-cycle A/C system, new risers and manifolds, replacement of both port and starboard fuel pumps, installation of fresh exterior Eisenglass, and renewed cockpit carpet covers. A Raymarine HD radar has also been added to augment the navigation package and offshore confidence.

Built on a proven hull, this Sea Ray presents a compelling option for cruising, weekending and stylish entertaining, combining a spacious layout with a substantial list of reported gear and upgrades. As with any pre-owned motor yacht, prospective buyers should arrange their own inspection to establish current condition and identify any servicing, repairs or upgrades appropriate to their plans and standards. For the right owner, this Sundancer offers a well-appointed 38-foot express cruiser with considerable scope to personalize and elevate to your own yachting preferences.
