OVERVIEW

2001 Carver 396 Motor Yacht — Immaculate Example — Fort Lauderdale

This exceptionally maintained 2001 Carver 396 Motor Yacht lies gracefully in the Isles off Las Olas in Fort Lauderdale, only minutes from the beach, the inlet, and the lively downtown scene. A particularly desirable perk accompanies the sale: the slip may be assumed with the boat, a rare convenience in this premier yachting neighborhood.

Renowned as one of Carver's signature designs, the 396 is prized for its generous interior volume, distinctive raised side decks, and the welcoming "great room" salon that opens directly into the galley and dinette. The layout creates a sense of space far beyond her measured length, making her a superb aft-cabin motor yacht for weekend getaways, stylish entertaining, or comfortable liveaboard coastal cruising.

Every area reflects careful ownership and attention to detail. Bright and inviting, the salon is bathed in natural light through broad windows, appointed with ample seating and an open flow that feels like a true living room afloat. The expansive aft deck, protected by a hardtop, provides an ideal setting for evening cocktails as the sun dips below the horizon, while the elevated flybridge commands excellent sightlines and offers generous seating for guests whether underway or at anchor—defining characteristics of a refined flybridge cruiser.

Below decks are two private staterooms and two full heads, thoughtfully arranged to provide privacy and comfort. The aft owner's suite features abundant storage and private head access, and the forward stateroom also has direct entry to a head with separate shower and toilet compartments, a level of refinement seldom encountered in this class. In every respect, this elegant cruising yacht marries luxury, livability, and capable performance in a timeless package.
