OVERVIEW

This exquisite yacht, sheltered for most of its life in a boathouse and showing fewer than 400 engine hours, presents itself in superb, lovingly preserved condition by its original owners. Rich Cherry wood graces the interior, while dependable Twin CAT diesel engines provide commanding performance; onboard systems are supported by a Kohler generator, and an additional set of cockpit controls affords greater ease of handling and maneuvering.

Outdoor comfort and protection are thoughtfully appointed with a Bimini top, sumptuous foredeck cushions, robust exterior upholstery covers and factory upholstery protectors, plus a full aft cockpit enclosure that expands living space. Window coverings and full interior blinds maintain privacy and light control, and a wealth of additional amenities completes the package. Located in the current boat location, the yacht includes moorage options in BC and delivery to U.S. waters, making it an exceptional choice for buyers seeking a ready-to-enjoy vessel in the current boat location.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Azimut 42 Flybridge

The Azimut 42 Flybridge is a masterpiece of nautical engineering, built on a deep-V hull with prop pockets that enhance its performance and versatility, and crafted to serve equally well for entertaining and for cruising. Its thoughtful layout begins with a spacious cockpit ideal for alfresco dining and flows upward to an expansive flybridge that stands out in its class for comfort and onboard amenities. Entering the covered cockpit, guests are welcomed by an interior that radiates luxury and natural light through extensive glazing; high-gloss cherry cabinets, cream-colored leather upholstery, and deep pile carpeting combine to create an inviting, sophisticated atmosphere. To starboard a large C-shaped settee with an adjustable dining table provides an elegant spot for relaxation and conviviality, while to port a smaller settee and an entertainment cabinet are placed for convenience. Moving forward and two steps up, the lower helm is seamlessly integrated into the design, offering intuitive control within the social heart of the yacht. The galley, positioned slightly down to port, maintains excellent communication with the salon so that meal preparation remains both practical and sociable. Below decks the master stateroom is a haven of comfort with an island queen berth and twin hanging lockers, and the guest stateroom opposite the galley offers side-by-side berths; both staterooms are complemented by heads with circular stall showers that ensure privacy and convenience. Additional practical features such as molded flybridge steps, twin cockpit transom doors, and a foredeck sun pad come standard, enhancing functionality without compromising the vessel's elegant lines. The Azimut 42 Flybridge is more than a yacht; it is a statement of style and performance for those who appreciate the finer things on the water.
