OVERVIEW

Poised with intent and refined in line, this 57' Mediterranean motor yacht melds athletic capability with the calm assurance of true luxury cruising. Launched in 2008 and lying in Greece, she is built in GRP (fiberglass) with fiberglass decks, the composite hull providing an excellent strength-to-weight ratio and low-maintenance longevity that owners appreciate for extended island-hopping and coastal passages.

Underfoot, twin inboard Volvo Penta diesel engines deliver a responsive, composed drive—effortless at an economical 22-knot cruise and capable of surging to 30 knots when the sea calls for speed. A modest draft of just 4.56 feet allows access to hidden coves and shallow anchorages unreachable by larger vessels, while a generous 15-foot beam stabilizes the platform and creates an unusually airy, open interior volume.

The living spaces are arranged for graceful, relaxed life aboard and gracious entertaining. A luminous salon welcomes conversation and long dinners, flowing into a well-sized galley suited to extended cruising. Accommodation is laid out for up to three guests, supported by two tastefully finished heads that maximize privacy and comfort. Professional operation and attentive service are enabled by two separate crew cabins, accommodating up to four crew—an exceptional feature on a yacht of this length that elevates every voyage.

Range and autonomy are integral to her design: nearly 740 gallons of fuel support ambitious itineraries, while more than 211 gallons of fresh water provide assurance for prolonged stays at anchor. The combination of GRP construction and the reliable efficiency of the Volvo Penta powertrain yields confident passages and precise handling in harbors and tight approaches.

On deck, proportions favor outdoor living—al fresco dining, comfortable sunning areas between swims, and sweeping views of the Aegean make every outing memorable. As a stylish weekend retreat or a capable coastal cruiser, this 2008 57' motor yacht in Greece projects effortless sophistication, performance, and a purposeful layout that is eminently livable with full crew support.
