DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Highlights

KRAKEN is a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly, measuring 65 ft overall, featuring a hydraulic swim platform and twin SeaKeeper stabilisers, along with hydraulic bow and stern thrusters. The yacht offers a generous flybridge with an elevated helm, a spacious aft cockpit, and a large salon flooded with natural light. The open galley and dining area flow into interior spaces that include a full-beam master stateroom, a VIP and additional guest accommodations, plus lower and upper helm stations. The layout lends itself to seamless indoor/outdoor entertaining and is well suited for Florida, the Bahamas, and extended cruising. Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Aft Cockpit & Hydraulic Swim Platform

KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly measuring 65 ft loa, features a substantial hydraulic swim platform that lowers into the water to welcome swimming, water toys, or tender boarding; when elevated, the platform becomes an extension of the aft deck, adding usable space at anchor or in the marina. The expansive aft cockpit offers a refined outdoor entertaining area with seating and direct access to the water, while large sliding glass doors open into the main salon, creating a seamless flow between the cockpit and interior living spaces. Together, the hydraulic swim platform and generous cockpit are perfectly suited to the Florida and Bahamas lifestyle, whether for swimming, entertaining, or spending a day at anchor. Main Salon

KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly with a length overall of 65 ft, presents a bright, spacious, and inviting main salon where expansive windows bathe the interior in natural light and offer superb views. The open layout affords a generous living area while preserving a direct connection to the cockpit and galley. Exquisite cabinetry and finishes throughout the salon convey the upscale ambiance expected of Sea Ray's flagship L-series yachts. The salon, dining area, and galley come together to form one expansive entertaining space, enabling family and guests to move fluidly across the main deck. Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Galley & Dining

The galley aboard KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly measuring 65 ft overall, sits forward of the salon and offers the storage, counter space, and appliances required for both weekend cruising and longer sojourns aboard. Its open layout keeps the chef connected to guests while meals are prepared, and the adjacent dining area furnishes a comfortable setting for formal dining or casual meals while underway or at anchor.

Lower Helm

The lower helm aboard KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly with a length overall of 65 ft, offers a sheltered and comfortable operating station with superb visibility and straightforward access to the yacht's navigation and vessel-monitoring systems. For extended passages or adverse weather, the lower helm serves as a refined, comfortable alternative to the flybridge. This description provided by Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Fly Bridge

KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly measuring 65 ft LOA, features an expansive flybridge that stands as one of the yacht's defining attributes. The elevated helm offers excellent visibility around the entire vessel and gives the captain a commanding position while underway. A large outdoor entertaining area with ample seating for family and guests is situated behind the helm. The flybridge is enjoyable whether cruising, anchored in a favorite location, or entertaining at the dock, delivering the open-air experience sought by many buyers of a 65-foot flybridge motor yacht.

Twin SeaKeeper Stabilisation

KRAKEN is outfitted with a twin SeaKeeper stabilisation system, a significant installation for a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly, 65 ft LOA. The SeaKeepers actively counteract the yacht's rolling motion, enhancing comfort for passengers both underway and at anchor. This effective stabilisation is particularly valuable for owners who intend to cruise offshore, fish, entertain, or spend extended periods aboard, and it is a notable consideration for buyers comparing Sea Ray L650 yachts.

Hydraulic Bow & Stern Thrusters

KRAKEN is equipped with hydraulic bow and stern thrusters that grant the captain independent control at both ends of the 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly, a 65-foot motor yacht. This capability proves invaluable in tight marinas, narrow fairways, or when facing wind and current: the hydraulic bow thruster delivers precise bow control while the stern thruster allows deliberate adjustments to the stern, together simplifying docking and close-quarters maneuvering. Installed in conjunction with twin SeaKeepers, the hydraulic thruster package enhances the yacht's handling and supports operation with a minimal crew.

Accommodations

Below deck, KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly with a length overall of 65 ft, offers a refined accommodation plan crafted for extended cruising. The full-beam master stateroom is situated amidships, leveraging the yacht's generous beam to create a spacious owner's retreat; hull-side windows invite natural light, and the cabin provides comfortable sleeping accommodations, ample storage, and an ensuite head. A VIP and an additional guest stateroom accommodate family and friends, making the L650 ideal for extended journeys with multiple guests. The separation between the private quarters and the main living areas delivers an excellent balance of privacy and entertaining space.

Master Stateroom

The full-beam master stateroom aboard KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly with a 65 ft LOA, is thoughtfully situated amidships to leverage the yacht's substantial beam, creating a spacious, private owner's retreat. Large hull-side windows invite natural light into the cabin, while the layout offers comfortable sleeping accommodations, generous storage, and an ensuite head. Its amidships location also places the master in one of the more stable, comfortable areas of the yacht while underway.

VIP & Guest Accommodations

KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly measuring 65 ft, offers a VIP stateroom and additional guest cabins that provide comfortable accommodations for family and guests. The layout is well suited for owners who enjoy extended cruising with family or multiple couples, providing everyone aboard with comfortable private accommodations. Shestakov Yacht Sales.

Engine Room & Mechanical Systems

The engine room of KRAKEN, a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly with a length overall of 65 ft, offers access to the yacht's main propulsion and supporting mechanical systems, together with the equipment that supports the hydraulic manoeuvring and stabilisation systems. This substantial mechanical package aboard the L650 features twin SeaKeeper stabilisers and hydraulic bow and stern thrusters, delivering enhanced comfort underway and greater control during manoeuvres.

Cruising & Lifestyle

KRAKEN is a 2017 SEA RAY L650 Fly, a 65 ft length overall vessel. The Sea Ray L650 Fly is exceptionally suited to the South Florida and Bahamas cruising lifestyle. Its generous interior volume, expansive outdoor entertaining areas, flybridge, multiple staterooms, stabilisation, hydraulic swim platform, and manoeuvring equipment render it ideal for weekend getaways, extended cruising, entertaining, and time spent at anchor.
