OVERVIEW

The Azimut Magellano 66, a 20.15-meter (66'1") luxury crossover motor yacht fashioned for extended voyaging, combines the steady demeanor of a trawler with the refined grace of Italian design. Built with extensive carbon fiber to unlock generous interior volume—accommodating four cabins plus crew—and to increase operational efficiency, she rests upon Azimut's distinctive Dual Mode semi-displacement hull, offering composed economy at displacement pace and assured performance as speed approaches planing.

Designed as a blue-water passagemaker, she boasts a range surpassing 900 nautical miles and serene cruising between 17 and 23 knots, propelled by twin Volvo Penta D13 engines showing only about 500 hours, making her eminently suited for prolonged, indulgent passages. Accommodations are carefully planned around a full-beam owner's suite amidships, a forward VIP stateroom and two guest cabins, sleeping eight comfortably, all finished to a refined superyacht standard with abundant natural light and meticulous detailing throughout.

Versatility defines the layout: the Navetta configuration introduces a separate galley and an enclosed helm for discreet crew operation, while the standard arrangement favors an airy, open-flow salon ideal for relaxed entertaining. The use of carbon fiber in the flybridge and hardtop trims weight and lowers the center of gravity, sharpening offshore stability and enhancing comfort underway. Equal parts explorer yacht, flybridge yacht and luxury cruiser, the Magellano 66 blends range, capability and elegance to deliver a calm ride, expansive deck spaces and the confidence to roam far in consummate yachting style.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Azimut 66 Magellano

The Azimut Magellano 66 is a 20.15-meter (66' 1") luxury crossover yacht designed for long-range cruising, marrying trawler-like stability with unmistakable Italian style. Constructed with extensive carbon fiber to maximize interior volume and efficiency, she offers four cabins plus crew and features Azimut's distinctive Dual Mode hull to provide safe, economical passages both at low trawler speeds and at higher planing speeds. On board, the carbon-fiber flybridge and hardtop reduce weight and lower the center of gravity for enhanced poise and stability, while the layout can be tailored to your cruising rhythm: the celebrated Navetta option introduces a separated galley and an enclosed helm for crew privacy, whereas the standard arrangement embraces an airy open-plan flow. Power comes from twin Volvo Penta D13 engines displaying only five hundred running hours, delivering a broad seventeen to twenty-three knot cruising band and a range in excess of nine hundred nautical miles, all with the quiet confidence and comfort required for sustained voyaging. Accommodations include a full-beam master suite amidships, a forward VIP and two additional guest cabins, effortlessly sleeping eight.
