OVERVIEW

A modern embodiment of Italian design married to American performance, this 2025, 78-foot luxury motor yacht presents a confident planing silhouette propelled by triple Volvo Penta engines. Exceptionally responsive at the helm yet composed on passage, she settles into a comfortable 27-knot cruise and can accelerate to an invigorating 33 knots, her advanced fiberglass-composite construction converting velocity into quiet, balanced, and precise motion. The generous 18-foot beam expands every social area while maintaining effortless circulation fore and aft, and with a substantial 1,320-gallon fuel reserve and 290 gallons of fresh water she encourages extended runs between favorite anchorages without compromise. Interior spaces, penned by Achille Salvagni, are sculptural and serene, where broad glazing pours daylight across curated surfaces and custom details; a sweeping salon transitions directly to the aft deck to create a seamless indoor-outdoor living sequence. Guest quarters are designed as private sanctuaries served by four impeccably finished heads, while a discreet single crew berth preserves onboard privacy and service. Underfoot and in hand every material reads as elevated yet understated, the tactile luxury of fine finishes paired with clean, modern lines. On deck, durable fiberglass surfaces, expansive sightlines, and considered appointments reinforce her identity as a true performance motor yacht—equally at ease island-hopping on a leisurely afternoon or pursuing the horizon at speed. Delivered new in 2025 and presently lying in the United States, this 78-footer offers a rare convergence of design pedigree and exhilarating capability, turning each outing into an elegant escape.

Azimut 78 fly

The 2025 Azimut 78 Fly marries daring exterior styling with generous, light-filled interiors and advanced naval engineering, placing it among Azimut's most refined flybridge creations. Designed by Alberto Mancini, the yacht displays sculpted contemporary profiles and expansive glazing that floods the interior with daylight and fosters a fluid connection between indoor and outdoor living areas. Powered by a triple Volvo IPS installation, she delivers responsive handling, a smooth cruising experience and exceptional maneuverability. The accommodation arrangement emphasizes a full-beam owner's suite within a spacious multi-stateroom layout, complemented by ample entertaining zones and a sweeping flybridge conceived for open-air dining, relaxed lounging and prolonged enjoyment on the water.
