OVERVIEW

"Current price" is provided as a guide only, and all respectful offers are warmly invited. The 2007 Simpson 34 is a purpose-built cruising catamaran that artfully balances seagoing performance, onboard comfort and true offshore capability within a refined multihull silhouette. Her wide beam and twin hulls deliver reassuring stability and confident handling, while the generous deckplan makes sail handling uncomplicated and passage-making relaxed. A raised saloon affords panoramic 360-degree views and bathes the interior in natural light, complemented by a carefully arranged galley, three comfortable staterooms and a roomy head, together creating an inviting and serene platform for extended cruising. The hulls are handbuilt in western red cedar strip and laminated with WEST System epoxy, providing long-lasting strength and stiffness in a lightweight structure. Equally suited to spirited island hopping or committed bluewater voyaging, this engaging 34-foot multihull offers adventuring sailors the comforts of a well-appointed home at sea.

She has been stored ashore on the hard for the past four seasons, kept covered and tended during her layup, and will benefit from the routine recommissioning expected after an extended period ashore; nonetheless she remains well-equipped for coastal cruising and your next island getaway.

Interested buyers are encouraged to inspect the yacht and submit their best offer; a full inventory and specification sheet can be provided on request.

Notable navigation and communications equipment includes Garmin radar, twin Garmin chartplotters, two VHF radios with their antennas and a Garmin AIS transponder, supporting confident passage planning and situational awareness aboard this modern performance catamaran.

A trailer is not included in the sale. Nationwide transport can be arranged, with custom cradles available and delivery to a port for international shipment if required, and appropriate trailers may be sourced separately. Please review the engines and machinery disclaimer prior to bidding.
