OVERVIEW

Streamlined, powerful, and quietly elegant, BLUE is a 65-foot Grand Soleil Maxi One sailing yacht — a monohull that marries racing lineage with immaculate Italian workmanship. Tailored for those who seek both speed and refinement, this luxury racer-cruiser promises exhilarating momentum under sail while preserving the calm, bluewater comfort demanded for extended passages.

Her elongated silhouette and performance-focused hull reveal a competitive temperament, yet the generous cockpit is equally suited to driving hard upwind or savoring a sunset at anchor. Twin helms, a pared-back deck layout, and a potent sail plan make this maxi yacht intuitive in every condition—responsive, composed, and conceived to be sailed.

Exterior images were taken prior to the yacht's renaming.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

General detailed description

BLUE is an exceptional example of the Grand Soleil Maxi One platform, a sixty-five-foot performance cruiser built by the renowned Italian shipyard Cantiere del Pardo and launched in 2001. Her hull lines, conceived for both speed and seakeeping, affirm the Maxi One pedigree as a yacht that shines on passage and in spirited sailing alike, combining dynamic performance with generous onboard volume across her overall length of 18.86 metres and beam of 5.28 metres. Powered by a reliable Yanmar 4LH-DTE diesel engine and configured with a sail drive and propeller, BLUE settles into a comfortable cruising pace of around eight knots with the potential to exceed ten knots under power when conditions allow, while a capacious 500-litre fuel tank and 450-litre fresh water tank underpin extended coastal or offshore cruising. Below decks, thoughtfully arranged accommodation welcomes six guests across three well-appointed cabins, complemented by separate crew quarters for two, and the interior balances comfort and practicality with systems such as a Tempo two-zone air conditioning system by Vemer and a Marineco watermaker to elevate liveability on extended voyages. Her electrical systems are supported by a Paguro generator for dependable power alongside and at anchor, and a navigation suite centred around Raymarine instrumentation with autopilot and radar equips her for confident coastal and offshore passage making; comprehensive fuel and water filtration, robust deck hardware and a well-considered steering arrangement further contribute to safe, rewarding handling across a wide range of conditions. Every aspect of BLUE expresses her dual nature as a capable high-performance sailing yacht and a comfortable cruising platform, whether stretching her legs over long distances under sail or hosting friends and family for a summer in the Mediterranean — she stands as a refined expression of the Grand Soleil Maxi One ethos: a rare blend of speed, stability and seafarer-centred design.
