DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Overview

AMINIKA is a Comar Comet 62 RS, the raised-saloon flagship of Comar's Vallicelli-designed performance line; a bona fide ocean sailing yacht built to RCD Category A standards that rewards an engaged owner while offering the comfort and range needed for extended family and guest cruising. Launched in 2020 and lightly used, she benefited from a comprehensive 2024 refit that delivered a new 25 m carbon mast and bowsprit, a full Zaoli sail wardrobe and entirely renewed standing and running rigging. Her defining attribute is an exceptionally clean deck: an integrated garage stows both tender and sails so nothing is carried topside and the teak remains uncluttered under way. Below, a bright light oak saloon, three cabins and generous onboard systems make her exceptionally liveable for long passages. AMINIKA is offered ready to sail, VAT not paid, and lying on the Italian Riviera; viewings are by appointment.

Accommodation

Arranged to comfortably host six guests within three elegantly appointed cabins, this yacht also offers a separate crew cabin for two with its own head to ensure discreet, professional service. The full-beam master suite benefits from a private en-suite head with a separate shower box, while the two guest staterooms—configured as one double and one twin—each enjoy their own head and shower box for added privacy. A light oak saloon serves as a gracious social centre, featuring a U-shaped dinette, a generous settee, a TV and a wine cooler. The thoughtfully designed galley is equipped for effortless provisioning and service, with a gas stove and oven, a refrigerator with freezer compartment and a double sink. Comfort and convenience are assured throughout with air conditioning, electric toilets, a water heater and a quality stereo system.

Deck and cockpit

Broad stretches of teak underfoot lend the exterior a quietly luxurious character, while the cockpit is organized around twin helm stations, each fitted with a chartplotter mounted at the wheel to ensure confident, precise navigation. Two cockpit tables offer inviting settings for dining or leisure, and aft a generous sunpad crowns the tender garage, which neatly conceals a rigid bottom dinghy of approximately three meters. Flush hatches keep the foredeck uncluttered, and a swim platform deploys from the transom to provide effortless access for swimming or boarding the tender.

Sails and rigging

A comprehensive 2024 refit significantly enhanced her sailing credentials, with the installation of a 25 m carbon mast and a carbon bowsprit and the complete renewal of both standing and running rigging during the same year. Her high-performance sail wardrobe by Zaoli comprises a 130 m² mainsail, an 88 m² genoa set at 105%, a 198 m² Code 0 and a 240 m² gennaker, together offering a versatile and powerful sail plan for every point of sail.

Machinery

At the heart of the vessel sits a single Yanmar 4LV engine, delivering 195 HP of smooth, dependable propulsion, while a 20 kW generator quietly supports all onboard electrical demands. Anchoring is made precise by a Quick chain counter and a bow thruster provides effortless control in confined spaces. Range and autonomy are assured by an 800-liter fuel tank and an 800-liter freshwater capacity, and safety is reinforced by the presence of both electric and manual bilge pumps.

Navigation and electronics

Seamless control is provided by a complete Raymarine navigation suite, featuring a Raymarine VHF and Raymarine radar, complemented by three Raymarine Axiom 7 chartplotters—one located at the chart table and two at the helm—offering intuitive operation and deliberate redundancy. An EPIRB ensures emergency preparedness, while an echo sounder together with a Windex supply precise depth readings and wind information to sharpen situational awareness.
