OVERVIEW

Originally commissioned on the flagship Fountaine Pajot Victoria 67 hull, SOME KIND OF WONDERFUL has been stretched by five feet, pushing the waterline and forward buoyancy outward to enhance both sailing performance and onboard comfort. The result is a bespoke 72' Fountaine Pajot sailing catamaran conceived for an owner who values spirited passage-making as much as gracious entertaining, offering a refined platform equally at home in luxury charter operations, family voyages, or extended bluewater passages.

Unlike standard production cruising multihulls in its category, SOME KIND OF WONDERFUL was custom-engineered with offshore capability in mind. A carbon fiber mast and boom paired with Kevlar standing rigging and elongated hulls reduce weight and increase efficiency, yielding a quicker, steadier and more composed sailing experience—ideal for those who demand true passagemaking performance without sacrificing the comforts, ease of handling, or poise expected from a premium multihull.

The yacht's layout was developed around modern owner expectations for generous entertainment areas, effortless indoor-outdoor circulation, and authentic guest privacy. Accommodation for up to ten guests includes a voluminous king primary suite, three beautifully appointed queen cabins, and a starboard forward twin, each cabin featuring its own ensuite bathroom and independent climate control, delivering charter-ready accommodation and comfort throughout.

Following an extensive 2024 refit that brought systems up to a high standard, the vessel presents as turnkey with a proven pedigree in the luxury charter market, ready for private enjoyment or immediate operation as a revenue-generating charter catamaran.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION

Electronics

Nestled at the helm, a Garmin 12-inch multifunction display brings GPS, chartplotting and radar together to provide assured route planning and situational awareness. Instrumentation and helm control are refined through a Garmin GHC 50 marine instrument, while a pair of Garmin GMI 20 displays deliver essential navigation metrics—one configured for wind and speed, the other dedicated to depth. Voice and data communications are handled by a Garmin GHS 11 VHF, with the analogue reference of a Plastimo Offshore 135 magnetic compass remaining onboard for dependable bearing confirmation.
