Engines

Engines are inoperable right now, so act quickly and save thousands. Once the engines are rebuilt the price will go up considerably. Call me to talk about the options to repower.

Broker Comments

This is a great opportunity for someone to get into a liveaboard situation for very little money. The engines do need to be gone through however, you could strike a deal with the owner before he puts the money into them and raises the price considerably. There are some options other than rebuilding the current Volvos that are in the boat right now. Give me a call and we can discuss them.
