DETAILED INFORMATION

Manufacturer Provided Description

The Glacier Bay 2670 Island Runner was designed with comfort, convenience, and protection from the elements. The flush deck design allows for a wide walk-around (14-inches on the starboard side) with easy access to the foredeck for fishing and anchoring. It also provides spacious and usable cuddy cabin. The design also provides almost a foot-and-a-half more helm station width than comparable boats. The helm has a tempered safety glass windshield, custom molded dash assembly with ample room for electronics. On the starboard side there's a custom seat assembly with built-in 32-gallon livewell and oversized access lid, cutting board, and storage access. On the port side is another custom seat module with built-in recess for a 54-quart cooler, included as a standard feature. The aft cockpit is appointed with thick combing pads, sink with sprayer, two large fish wells and tackle box. The aft deck is crowned for drainage and designed with wrap around gutters. Both custom seat modules are designed and built with molded-in 'toe kick recesses' and foot rests. The 2670 also comes with two 6-inch cockpit speakers. Access to the side decks is easy - up two steps. Below deck, the cuddy has a queen-size berth, electric marine head with holding tank, plush interior with leather accents, Corian counter surfaces, vanity sink and storage compartments.
