DETAILED INFORMATION

Description

The interior is spartan, and makes for easy storage of sails, or dousing a spinnaker. There are two pipe berths, as well as two additional berths, one on either side of the hull. There is a nav station, a two burner stove, and a head.

The Lombardini engine is easily accessed by removed the engine cover under the companionway. Directly behind the engine is the sail drive.

There is easy access to the quadrant in the stern, and the interior is conducive to simplicity and ease of maintenance.
