DETAILED INFORMATION

Accommodations

The Egg Harbor 58 is a scaled down version of the Egg Harbor 60 Convertible introduced in 1986. With her long foredeck, sweeping sheer, and rakish superstructure, the Egg Harbor is a study in classic, Jersey-style design. She's built on a low-deadrise hull with a 17'6" beam, cored hull sides, and a solid fiberglass hull. Below, the 58's standard layout is arranged with three staterooms on the lower level and the low profile galley forward in the salon. The owners suite is amidships in this layout (with a step down dressing room extending under the salon floor) and includes a queen bed and separate enclosed shower in the head. The cockpit on this boat is huge and so is the flybridge, which provides seating for a small crowd. A good open water performer, she will cruise in the mid 20's. This boat has recently been painted from the rub rail up, hull sides are in very good condition. She is in the process of being refit inside due to water damage and is looking for someone to complete the process. Both Caterpillar 3412's run, along with the Kohler 12KW generator. This is a project boat, no electronics.
