Overview

This is a beautiful home away from home for the present owners. They have cruised Florida and the general area for the last few years; it is time to go home. Hailing from the great Northwest they have literally grown up in the trawler capital of the world. They searched long and hard before they found a boat that would meet the requirements that had been instilled in their boating history of rough water, unforgiving passes and inclement weather.

One might say that this tough Kong-Halversen hull would be overkill for Florida. But why not, if she is available right here in the Sunshine State. Who knows, you might just want to hitch her up and take off for the deep southern Virgins or Central America/Mexico; the point being she can take anything and provide the comfort and safety of the absolute best that money can buy.
