Overview

This is a very rare opportunity to acquire a very lightly used Sunbeam 39 - year 2005. The original owner's other commitments force the sale of this Austrian built centre cockpit yacht. Used for light coastal cruising in Westcountry waters only. No expense has been spared through her maintenance and improvement. Fully prepared for sale, the engine has been serviced, topsides and superstructure polished, teak cleaned, antifouled, new anodes and the rig tuned. Below decks she is immaculate. This is a must see...

DETAILED INFORMATION

Accommodation

Built to the exacting standards of the German Lloyd certifying authority. The Sunbeam is a modern yacht with her fine lines. The lead keel guarantees optimal synthesis between weight and form stability. The rudder consists of a stable stainless steel skeleton with clean defined, pre-balanced fibreglass panel. Stainless steel rudder shaft. The lead keel is strengthened with stainless steel bolts at the hull. The keel area is especially reinforced in the hull. Laminating includes reinforcement for all deck fittings. The mast load is taken up to the keel by the stainless steel compression post. Extra light foam sandwich bulkhead walls. Hull and deck 100% hand laminated. Sandwich laminate in the deck area. First three laminate layers ISO/NPG resin. Hull and deck interior sealing with top coat. The laminating at the baseboard reaches a considerable thickness and consequently increased safety. Shrouds load distributed over the whole of the hull area. Collision bulkhead in the bow area.
