There are boats that have been with us for so long, and are so popular, that they have attained classic status. The Grand Banks 36 is such a boat. She was the first model in the Grand Banks fleet, and over 1,200 were built during her production years. A semi-displacement hull with a long keel, hard chines and a deep forefoot provide the stability that won the 36 a reputation for seaworthiness seldom matched by other boats in her class. She has a twin-stateroom interior all finished with handcrafted teak woodwork and all incorporating the very best in workmanship, hardware and materials. Topside, raised bulwarks provide security to the walkaround decks, and there's room for a dinghy on the aft cabintop. Notable features include teak decks, functional mast and boom, and a spacious flybridge.
