Overview

Imagine being completely at ease at 2 o'clock in the morning as you sail MORNING STAR across the Atlantic, heading for the Azores. This is precisely what she was built for. With safety and comfort in mind, the owners of MORNING STAR worked with the team at Oyster Yachts to create the ideal vessel capable of taking them anywhere in the world. They outfitted her with robust and redundant equipment, from the dual Maxwell 3500 windlasses to the twin helms equipped with two Robertson auto-pilots. The raised pilot saloon, which features a "C" settee with lunch table and opposing nav. station, allows the crew to enjoy their meal with full view of the deck and sea and be able to change course without putting down their beverage. MORNING STAR wants to sail, and her owners want to find the right stewards for her next voyage. She is in immaculate condition and will be easily viewable this winter in Camden, ME, at the Lyman-Morse Wayfarer facility. U.S. DUTY PAID.
