Totally Redone 2013

Yamaha 250 Four Strokes Under 525 Hours

2015 Sea Tech Float-On Aluminum Trailer

Regulator's 26 Express provides fishing fun for the entire family. Her fishing amenities rival those of a big sportfisherman while her cabin competes with expensive family cruisers. The cockpit on Regulator's 26 Express is designed for serious offshore fishing. There's a large in-deck 50-gallon recirculating baitwell, two transom bait boxes, under-seat coolers and a 7-foot insulated locking fishbox with storage for up to six rods. Deck-mounted rod holders and a raw water washdown system are standard. The cabin on a 26 features 6-foot headroom, shore power and two full-size berths. Her galley features a sink with running water, an ice box, and space for an optional refrigerator . A cavernous storage area below the starboard berth allows you to stow all of your important gear and an easily accessible forward locker stores your anchor line. The galley includes everything one would expect including the kitchen sink. For privacy, there's a large enclosed fiberglass head featuring a stainless steel sink, shower and screened window. The waters off North Carolina, among the most dangerous and unpredictable in the world, have been the proving ground for Regulator boats since they entered the market in 1990. Designed by Naval Architect Lou Codega, one of the country's most experienced deep-V designers, Regulator's hulls feature wide reverse chines for stability as well as a sharp entry V and sharp transom V, slicing through even the roughest seas.
