SPECIFICATIONS

Overview

Old Spice is not a dockside condo type of trawler; she's happy underway and on an adventure. She's ready to cruise, easy to handle, and low maintenance. A semi-custom design, it has the quality of the ever-popular Monk 36, but with a lot more room.

The fiberglass hull has a skeg protected rudder and a bow thruster. Her engine room features dual Lehman diesels, one with only 250 hours, Onan generator, driplless shaft seals, and a Reverso oil change system. Above the water line are fiberglass decks with very little wood, so you can enjoy your time on board instead of performing endless upkeep. And the 17" wide side decks and high railing make moving around while underway very comfortable and secure.

The seller reports a modest 4 ½ gallon fuel consumption at approximately 8 knots, with a cruising RPM of approximately 1500-1800.
