DETAILED INFORMATION

VESSEL WALK THROUGH

The saloon is entered through a beautifully curved stainless-steel-and-glass slider that foretells the European feel. Inside, the saloon stretches unbroken from the door to the windshield. The wavelike-curve of its overhead conveys a sense of airiness.

Up two steps is the galley and dining level with a china and glassware cabinet to port and an open galley to starboard. With black granite counters and a center island with double sink, the galley is perfectly situated between the saloon and helm area. It has an under-counter Sub-Zero refrigerator with separate freezer and a microwave/convection oven, and the two-burner electric cook top. Curved stairs lead to the lower deck. The steps are gently spaced, and the stairwell is 30 inches wide, making passage easy. On the lower level is a stylish foyer with an inlaid black granite sole embedded with tiny LED lights, and a full-size washer/dryer is behind a panel in the fluted wainscoting.

The Full beam aft master stateroom, with a king berth under a cherry overhead treatment, two big cedar-lined lockers and walls of bureaus, is spectacular. The granite-lined master head is equally spacious and has a long bathtub that looks perfect for soaking.

The VIP stateroom is forward and includes an island berth, and a TV/DVD player that hinges neatly from the overhead and full-length hanging lockers. There is access to a head with a large shower.

The third guest cabin, which has stacked bunks in a well used space.

Thoughtfully spaced stairs provide access to the flying bridge. The helm console has good space for the electronics, twin pedestal chairs and a double-bench seat backed against a wet bar. A large curved dinette is aft to starboard. The aft bridge deck is designed to handle a small tender or wave runner with the optional crane

Vessel Details

The 59 Marquis has three staterooms and two heads plus a separate captains quarters aft. There are Four Zone air conditioning and heat and several were recently updated. The Vip is located forward and third stateroom with over under bunks. As you enter from the aft deck through stainless steel sliding doors you enter into and the Spacious and well designed main salon. This particular yacht has been well maintained and this beautiful Marquis is truly best in class with every desirable accommodation. She boasts a rich high gloss cherry interior throughout.

This yacht appears to have much more space than European builders and has many upgrades. The designers did a fantastic job of incorporating high ceilings and lots of windows that create this feeling. The yacht has the look and lines of a European Yacht and the space and accommodation of an American yacht.
