Overview

---

NAUGHTON is a 32 foot Eagle Transpac Trawler. She is powered by a single, fuel efficient Ford Lehman inline 6 cylinder diesel. She offers dual helms, forward stateroom, galley, head with separate shower, and plenty of seating and storage around a large table in the salon. NAUGHTON is a comfortable and economic trawler for long or short range voyages. Her size makes her an inexpensive and cozy live aboard in the keys for one or two people.

She survived hurricane Irma undamaged.

DETAILED INFORMATION

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Walkthrough

---

Entering from the starboard sliding door you will be standing at the lower helm. Directly opposite from the lower helm is the port benchseat and side deck door. From the lower helm you can easily walk out either side of the boat. Forward is the head and stateroom, and aft is the saloon and galley. Between the two bench seats in the saloon is the door to the aft deck equipped with a davit. The flybridge is accessible with a ladder going up from the aft deck.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Salon

The salon can be accessed through a door on the aft deck and from stairs leading down from the pilothouse. It measures 106" x 94" with 76" of headroom. Seating for the salon is plentiful at a large table with benches on three sides and the galley on the fourth. Under the padded bench seats, you will find more storage compartments for long journeys. With the table folded out the saloon has a feel of a large booth. The T.V. is mounted in the galley, and can be seen comfortably when sitting at the table in the salon.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Galley

The galley is located on the starboard side in the saloon. The galley and saloon measure 106" forward to aft, and 94" port to starboard with 76" of headroom. The galley is equipped with a Tasco three burner gas oven and stove, stainless one piece countertop and sink, and ample overhead storage.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Pilothouse

The raised pilothouse offers a benchseat on each side, side deck access doors on each side, full helm, stairs to the master stateroom and access to the engine room.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Master Stateroom

The forward master stateroom is accessed from the pilothouse. As you go down the steps into the room you will find a hanging locker and drawers port side, and a private head starboard with the V berth all the way forward.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Head

---

The head is located to starboard, and accessed via the forward stateroom. It measures approximately 80" x 48" with 74" of headroom, and a separate shower that measures 26" x 43" with 73" of headroom.

---

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Flybridge

---

The flybridge is equipped with a bench seat large enough for two people to sit at the helm. The seat lifts up for more storage, and there is room for a couple deck chairs behind the bench. The 98" x 93" flybridge has stainless railings, and a stainless ladder with wood rungs leading up to it.

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Electronics

---

- Raytheon R10 radar scanner
- Ritchie Compass
- Garmin GPSMap 162
- Raymarine C90 chart plotter
- Raymarine autopilot
- Uniden 380 VHF radio
- Hawkeye depth sounder

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Engine

---

The power for this 1988 Eagle 33 Transpac Trawler comes from a single efficient 135 horsepower Ford Lehman inline 6 cylinder diesel with approximately 4147 hours

---

32' Eagle Transpac Trawler Deck Equipment

---

NAUGHTON is equipped with stainless stanchions and lifeline railing port and starboard, fiberglass walkways all the way around the boat, and plenty of storage in the bench seat on the 58" x 122" aft deck. Between the aft deck and the flybridge is a mast and boom style davit, complete with block and tackle. The 98" x 93" flybridge is equipped with a bench seat big enough for two to sit at the upper helm with stainless railing around the sides and space behind the bench for a couple of deck chairs. Forward of the upper helm is the 37" x 65" solar panel.
