DETAILED INFORMATION

Features

From the bimini covered cockpit, you walk up two steps (one of which opens to access the aft bilge and shafts), into the pilothouse. The helmsman's seat to starboard accommodates two people, and the companion seat, to port, accommodates one. There is a center deck hatch that accesses the engine room, and the two seats fold down, so as to allow complete access to a total of three hatches and complete full-width access to the engine room. All hatches are new and built with sound insulation.

>From the port side companionway in the pilot house, there are two steps down to the main cabin, which is open straight through to the galley. An L-shaped settee with backrests is to starboard. The backrests remove to access storage and provide two full custom L-shaped twin mattresses, as berths. There also is a mahogany drop leaf table that provides an eating area for at least four. To port, is a small, original drop-leaf table for one or two. There is ample storage to port behind sliding cabinet doors. Stepping down from the main salon is the galley to port. To starboard, is a hanging locker, and forward is the head, with stall shower. Throughout the galley and head is new plywood sole and cork flooring. Forward of the galley and head is the stateroom with a large V-berth with custom twin mattresses, with full length shelves above. Below the bunks are two large pullout drawers for clothing, and three lockers forward of the drawers. Forward of the V-berth is a hanging and storage locker, with two cabinet doors accessing the anchor locker. The large original deck anchor hatch was removed and glassed over, with a spill pipe installed for the storage of the rode. The anchor now sits in a custom Huckins bow roller.
