DETAILED INFORMATION

Engines

ONLY 150 ORIGINAL HOURS!!!

Risers and manifolds have been disassembled, sanded and cleaned, and rebuilt with new gaskets. Zinc's are not due for replacement for some time. This boat has hardly been used. The low hours represent how little the boat has been run, and how little wear the interior shows. All service and maintenance have been kept up despite the lack of use.

A common problem with these Mercruiser engines was vapor lockout. This is a major inconvenience, and can cause the engines to shut off when you need them the most. This owner has accounted for this issue. They hired a certified mechanic to remove the fuel-water separators from under the heat exchangers and instead mounted them approximately a foot in front of the engines to eliminate this vapor lock problem. You can see where they have been mounted in the engine photos.

Just another example of how this owner has spared no expense on maintaining this boat to the highest quality.
