Overview

This day-cruiser has marked Maori's brand, story and success.

Since the first sight, NASTY (Maori 50') reminds us of the lines of a sailing boat. This is down to its creator spending most of his career as Captain on sailing boats. NASTY has been built to be used under any sea conditions, as a matter of fact, it has excellent stability and seaworthiness, and it is very smooth on the waves thanks to its incredible hull.

The open area is highly liveable with four sun-pads, two sofas, and a comfortable dining table covered by an awning.

The interior is basic and comfortable, with a great sofa that turns into a wide bed, a small dinette and a bathroom. The walk around makes the ship very easy to be lived on. The boat needs a very little maintenance, and side fenders grant a higher protection from collisions. Available for viewings in Saint-Tropez upon appointment.
