Overview

If you are not familiar with Marquis you should see this blend of Italian design and American craftsmanship to know why it has been so popular since it was first introduced. If you have been on board other boats this size you will be shocked with the volume of this boat, she has a huge salon with a forward dinette rather than a lower helm, an air conditioned flybridge with expansive room for entertaining, and a three stateroom layout all with ensuite heads.

DETAILED INFORMATION

Walk Through

Vessel Overview Entering from the aft you will first find the hydraulic swim platform and the entrance to the engine room through a watertight bulkhead door. The cockpit is accessible through molded steps mounted on either side of the transom. Stainless steel handrails and gate provide stability and safety. The aft deck is shaded by an overhanging section of the fly bridge extending even to the transom. Located port side is a curved molded staircase with handrail allowing access to the flybridge. Walking forward toward there are wide walk arounds with high rails to allow for easy docking and access to the large sun lounge and anchor. Entering the salon, you will find a couch and 2 ultra leather recliner chairs situated to the port side and entertainment (TV/Stereo system controls) and 2 additional chairs to the starboard. A blend of Natural and Ambient lighting fills the room via 360 degree window framing. Forward to the starboard side is a spiral staircase gaining access to the Fly Bridge. To the port side is the galley and bar area. The helm is situated centerline with U-Shaped lounge seating to the port. This area is elevated for increased vision for the captain and guests. This arrangement allows for social entertaining and enjoyment of the scenery going by. Located on the starboard side is a carpeted staircase leading down to the Lower Foyer. The FULL-BEAM Master Stateroom is a slight turn to the left heading down a hallway and down three steps. Access to the guest stateroom is directly across from the Lower Foyer entrance. The Guest Head is connected to the Guest Stateroom and Foyer and features a shower accessible via two separate doors for privacy. Toward the bow is the VIP stateroom with private head. From the swim platform, the separate crew quarters feature a single berth and head/shower room. Another watertight bulkhead door provides access to the engine room and all mechanical systems.

Salon Curved glass sliding doors open up to main Salon area of ENTERTAINING AREA. The 360 degree view of the outside world through UV filtered poly-glass allows for ambient lighting reflects off the tastefully decorated High Gloss Woods, Italian Marble, and countertops. The overhead lighting is controlled in convenient locations via dimmable rocker switches. Shades under recessed head rails add to the decor and permit owner privacy. Stylized Cherry Wood Bussola characterize the overhead inlays. The Salon features a 42 Inch Flat Screen TV hydraulically mounted to stand tall or recess into the cabinetry. A Premium Surround Sound System with Five disc CD/DVD player and Satellite Radio hook up are controlled via a universal remote for your entertaining pleasure. The entire boat sound system can be centrally controlled in the Salon or at their individual locations. A custom cocktail table is the centerpiece of the Salon area surrounded by a three panel Ultra leather sofa with end tables and twin recliners that face the TV. You will notice Marquis has utilized all possible space to provide plenty of storage compartment including the sofa, stairwell, and under deck hatches. Located aft in the salon is discrete hinged paneling that opens up to the main

AC & DC distribution panel. Located forward and to the starboard by the dining area is the etched glass spiral staircase with polished stainless steel framing that leads up to the Fly Bridge. Forward of the staircase is the Dining Area featuring an oversized High Gloss Cherry Wood finished table that extends and retracts to accommodate different size parties. Six dining chairs surround the table. Conveniently located are twin China cabinets with storage for flatware and stemware. Overhead new LED and courtesy lighting accent the space while still offering panoramic viewing of the outside world.
