DETAILED INFORMATION

Vessel Walk Through

Boarding at the swim platform, you will step on to a large hydraulic platform with teak decking. Sliding tender chocks sit at the ready for a jetski or dinghy. At the base of the cockpit stairs, a set of teak swim steps sit nestled flush with the deck. When the platform lowers, these automatically raise up to become a gradual and easy staircase into the water. No more clambering up a vertical or narrow ladder in and out of the water! Across the back of the cockpit seating, a transom galley is mounted just above the window to the skipper cabin. The transom galley has a Kenyon electric grill with a rinse sink and LED lighting. Stepping up the cockpit steps to port, shore power inlet, dock water, raw water, and a cable connection is set behind a small locker door, out of sight and easily accessed. A stainless steel swing gate keeps your guests safe while underway. The cockpit has teak decking with a large access hatch into the engine room. To port and starboard are steps leading up forward to the bow. To port, floating teak steps grant access to the flybridge with an icemaker tucked in below them. On the other side, a boarding door allows easy access on and off the boat when tied up at a fixed dock. The cockpit seating doubles as access into the skipper cabin in the transom. The high gloss teak table has folding wings to serve as a cocktail table with stainless steel cup holders or opens out to a full-size dining table.

The saloon entrance has three mirrored sliding doors with a wing station for docking on the starboard corner. The interior living space offers a panoramic view from anywhere in the boat. An aft galley is conveniently located for entertaining inside or out, with separate access to the cockpit from the galley. Amenities like a dishwasher, electric range, convection oven, large refrigerator and freezer and plenty of storage make this galley aesthetically pleasing and very functional. An aft stairwell to starboard across from the galley grants access to the full-beam master stateroom. The saloon is just forward of the galley with an electric high/low dinette table to port with L shaped seating on each side forward and aft. This table opens up to serve as an interior dining table when the weather dictates dining inside. There is another L shaped sofa to starboard with a gap for the side-access doorway to the bow. The helm finishes off the saloon space all the way forward to starboard with an electric helm seat that converts to saloon seating when not underway. The lower helm has a full suite of electronics by Raymarine, Volvo IPS joystick and exceptional visibility. Centerline on the boat is a forward stairwell leading to the guest staterooms. To port, the guest stateroom has two twin beds on a sliding track that allow it to be a queen-size bed as well. Across from that is a head with stand-alone shower, dry head, vanity and private access into the VIP stateroom. The VIP stateroom takes up the entire bow of the boat with two hanging lockers and an island-style queen size bed. This bed sits on tracks as well and can swing to port and starboard to create two twin beds as an alternative. From the aft stairwell, you will step down into the master stateroom. Expansive hull side windows bring a light airy feeling into the room with a queen-size bed centerline facing forward. The master head is just forward of the bed with a stand-alone shower, dry head and large vanity sink.

The flybridge of this boat is by far the best space to entertain or cruise. A large sun pad with reclining backrests brings the guests alongside the captain while underway. The flybridge helm to port mirrors the lower helm with Raymarine electronics, Volvo IPS joystick, and seating for two. Behind the helm seat is a second Kenyon electric grill with rinse sink and storage below. To starboard is a top-loading refrigerator to keep drinks and food conveniently accessible. The aft portion of the flybridge has another large L shaped sofa with a high gloss teak table. A hardtop with dimmable LED lighting keeps everyone cool in the shade. The bow seating area has a large sunpad with reclining backrests and a sunshade cabana.
