Here is a passage from a June 2006 Hunter 41 Deck Salon Review from Cruising World contributor Nim Marsh: ".....I stepped off this Hunter impressed. The 41 DS seems to cover many bases and includes many details in an attractive package that really works... for me, it was the Hunter's performance that stood out, which I reiterated to Glen Henderson (Hunter Designer), he replied "My primary objectives were high stability, boat speed, a good motion in a seaway, and reactivity or responsiveness," he replied. "These four attributes make up what is commonly known as 'performance.....'"
