SPECIFICATIONS

Overview

Tallulah is a trailerable pocket cruiser that is ideal for a cruising couple or young family. Designed by Nick Hake for simple handling and good performance in shoal waters, the Seaward 25 has a plumb bow, a sturdy anchor platform, and a bit of tumblehome.

With a shallow-draft it's designed for access to low water locations and gunkholers. Take a look at Tallulah for an ideal boat at a nice price. Her owner has invested over $11,000 since 2018. She comes with a trailer that is not registered.

DETAILED INFORMATION

Overview

Accommodations

The arrangement of spaces belowdecks is very straightforward. The galley runs fore and aft to port, a short settee to port sits opposite and a 6- footer to starboard that converts to a berth. Other sleeping accommodations are in the bow and a quarterberth in the port quarter. The head is to starboard aft of the forward berth.

The dining table is mounted on the bulkhead and secured with an eye and hook, but has no legs. It is deployed by being unlatched to a horizontal position and moved horizontally on a stainless steel bar until situated amidships. A good arrangement, two adults on both sides of the table can dine.
