Overview

BACCARA III is a custom sailing vessel designed by Ted Hood and built in Maine by the acclaimed Lyman Morse Boatyard. To date she has had just four owners, with her present owners owning her since 2015. Health reasons are forcing the sale. The current owner has replaced most systems aboard and the boat must be considered "Turn Key" ready to cruise. BACCARA III is a capable and seakindly sailboat that, with her ketch rig and shoal draft keel centerboard hull design, can still transit north/south via the U.S. east coast Inland Waterway. Board up, she draws less than six feet, and with her centerboard down, she sails well to weather. She is currently located on the Carriibbean Island of St. Maarten and can be seen by appointment.
