Overview

As you step aboard Gaia, things just seem different. It might be the warmth of her teak, her palatial cockpit, or the jauntness of her bowsprit as you look forward to survey her lines. She is perfectly set up as a comfortable, spacious cruising yacht - ready to go with amenities for your long weekend or offshore adventure. Take a wander forward onto her bowsprit, turn around and look back. You will realize this is one of the best seats in the house just to take it all in when you are underway, especially if you have been joined by a dolphin or two on your journey. Gaia is a well loved and cared for Whitby - Brewer 42. She is a 42 foot Center Cockpit Staysail Ketch, built in Canada in 1987 and one of the last two Whitby - Brewer's built in Whitby Ontario. With a moderate draft, she is the perfect boat whether you crave deep-water offshore passages, island hopping in the Bahamas, cruising the intracoastal or enjoying cocktails with friends at the marina. In fact, with Gaia's ample space, storage and appointments she would make an ideal floating home. Gaia has had only two owners in her life; both have kept her in meticulous condition. She has seen an exceptional level of care, especially in the latter years of her life from her very dedicated present owner. Gaia has had many high-quality upgrades over the last few years, much of it in the last year. She has been meticulously maintained from her masthead to her through-hulls. Many of her core systems are new, all installation and refit work has been completed with the highest level of professionalism. Gaia is turn-key ready for the sailor just itching to drop the lines.
