Overview

Built in 1976 by Ronald Rich of Southwest Harbor, Maine, who along with his brothers Robert and Roger Rich built traditional wooden power boats, each in their own shops, the Two Crows was the pride and joy of her one and only owner. He lobstered around an outer island off the coast of Maine for 45 years until 2021 when he could no longer use her. He maintained her well over the years with recent hull and frame work. Her diesel engine runs, as does her hydraulic 12" pot hauler. If you are considering an authentic 30' Maine lobster boat for pleasure or for commercial use, she may be a boat to consider.
