Overview

Known for their commercial grade vessels Coastal Craft built this 400 IPS Coastal Cruiser like a rock. Top grade and quality features throughout. Constructed of heavy-gauge aluminum and designed to thrive under the harsh sea conditions encountered in the Pacific Northwest. Her welded-aluminum exterior is flawlessly finished, thanks in large part to the skill of the welders at Coastal Craft and the aluminum-friendly, pulsed-MIG welding techniques they employ. With a helm/saloon/galley/dinette area on the main deck and on the lower deck, a master forward (with split head: MSD to starboard and shower stall to port) and a guest aft, she looks cruise-comfy and roomy enough. But what is so impressive more than anything else is the fit and finish. Although there were sound/vibration-abatement materials concealed inside or behind much of the urethane-varnished cherry joinery, the stuff nevertheless looked as perfect as the vessel's flawless aluminum exterior. They do some sweet carpentry up there in British Columbia, make no mistake.
