It would be a desirable situation for a couple or small family to live aboard. The inside spaces are commodious with lots of natural lighting from the many large windows. There are three sleeping cabins for privacy. A large saloon with a pellet stove provides seating for six or seven persons. There is a separate dining area and an inviting full galley. A wonderful feature is the outdoor space on the upper deck with a hot tub, seating and a cooking station as well as the partially enclosed upper helm with built-in bench seating. As far as the general interior description I would say -- consider it a blank canvas for your personal decorating choices. If that isn't enough here is essentially a floating home that can take you on a cruise.
