Overview

Euphoria 2 is a solid steel hull yacht with an aluminium superstructure and has been awarded the highest seal of approval as a commercial yacht by the RINA classification society.

She is a solid yacht to be taken serious and turning heads wherever she goes with her dynamic, flowing exterior lines. Her appearance is drawn from the hand of one of the elite superyacht designers of our times, Ken Freivokh who is also known for the Dyna sails rigged "Maltese Falcon", "Project X" or most recently the new Azimut Magellano Series. Innovation in how glass is used within a superyacht design show in this project how forward thinking this yacht was conceived. To cite the studios official project description: "Glass technology is at the forefront of the design, as the yacht not only enjoys large, multi-deck panoramic windows, but even the bulwarks are glazed, creating a very special open feeling towards the sea."
