Controls already available. Said this the boat has been refitted to be used as fishing charter boat so we have decided to do not embellish her with painting or other things but we focused the attention on her functionality. The engines have not been painted but they have run only 700 hours after their overhaul in 1996. The hull has very few little gel-coat osmosis bubbles but there are no delaminating phenomena, no crashes or other damages. Considering the age, the hull is well maintained. Shaft lines, shaft struts and rudders are in good conditions and the RINA surveyor not required any work we have only maintained as per good practice.
